

Subject: Invitation to attend Faculty Identification Programme-II

Dear Professional Colleague,

The possibility of GST implementation in April, 2017 looks real. In view of the great need for imparting training across the length and breadth of the country, Indirect Taxes Committee has undertaken this mission to identify and provide opportunities to members for enlisting in the faculty list of Indirect Taxes Committee of ICAI. With the introduction of GST being imminent, the need to be prepared with a database of trainers is imperative.

Accordingly, in order to increase its faculty base and provide a well set platform to new aspirants to contribute as an Indirect Taxes (including GST) faculty, Committee is organizing next Faculty Identification programme at various location as per below mentioned TENTATIVE schedule :

Persons who aspire to become a faculty of Indirect Taxes are expected to meet the following basic requirements:

- Public speaking – past experience in training / seminars / class-room sessions, understanding audience expectation and keen classroom strategist .

Participant who wishes to present in local language would also be considered for being faculty within the region of the language.

Given the above, program is not meant to provide training to the participants but to identify the new faculties to increase the pool of faculties with the following approach:

1. Volunteers will be required to make 15 minutes PPT presentation on any topic of Model GST Law. It would be ideal that your presentation be on topic of GST model law rather than GST overview etc.
2. The shortlisted candidate from this training would be called for Two days comprehensive training on Indirect Taxes including GST that would be tentatively held at Delhi, Mumbai, Chennai/ Bangalore and Kolkata in the month of October, 2016 which would be communicated separately.

Members who were unable to get through in the previous attempt in August 2016 could prepare well and present again if they feel they can do better.

We would like to inform you that no fees would be charged for this programme. Participants could attend the program till the conclusion.
